As the City of El Paso's Mayor Pro Tem, Larry Medina "championed" the nation's toughest and healthiest Clean In-door Air Public Ordinance, and as a result of his hard work the Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society presented him with the "True Grit" award. This award is given to one elected official annually to honor him/her for taking extraordinary personal risks to impact public policy in support of cancer prevention, detection, or treatment.

Because of Commissioner Larry Medina's strong conviction that as an elected official it was his duty to protect innocent children, employees, and customers from the hazards of second-hand smoke, he has been invited to speak on this issue at many conferences in dozens of cities across the United States and abroad.
